

POSITION OPENING

Instructor of Decision Sciences
Charles H. Lundquist College of Business
Department of Decision Sciences
University of Oregon

The Lundquist College of Business, University of Oregon is seeking to fill one faculty position at the instructor level.

Position: Instructor of Decision Sciences

Employment
Beginning: September 16, 2013

Description: The Lundquist College of Business is committed to providing high quality teaching that incorporates critical thinking and experiential learning. Responsibilities include teaching business statistics at the undergraduate level; ability to teach introductory courses in MIS is highly desirable; advising students; and participating in committee membership and other assignments. Candidates for this position should be comfortable teaching in large and small lecture classes. The successful candidate will have the ability to work effectively with students, faculty, and staff from diverse backgrounds. Appointment is subject to renewal based on performance and budget.

Qualifications: Qualifications: Master's Degree or PhD degree in statistics or closely related discipline required. The ability to provide high quality teaching in business statistics at undergraduate level required. Ability to teach introductory MIS courses desirable. Previous university level teaching experience strongly preferred.

Salary: Competitive

Application
Procedure: Send letter of interest, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching interests, evidence of teaching performance, and names of 3 references to the following e-mail address: LCBjobs@uoregon.edu. Reference Search #13116 in your reply.

Deadline: To ensure consideration, submit application materials by May 20, 2013. The position will remain open until filled.